The Charlotte News says Marion Butler's speeches "seem to be for the most part a bitter attack on Democracy past and present." That's all right, for if Butler were to be going around tickling Democracy under the chin it would be grounds for suspecting that she had gone wrong.

New York dispatches on Friday announced that Postmaster General Geo. B. Cortelyou, National Republican chairman, was in New York conferring with Hughes, Republican nominee for Governor. As Cortelyou has not returned those insurance contributions to the Republican campaign fund he went to New York to let Hughes know the National committee had money to spare to help carry New York.

"Washington schools are asking a million dollars more than they had last year," says the Baltimore Sun. In North Carolina Republicans are trying to make political capital because the Democrats provide so much money to enlighten the children of North Carolina. Republicans might stand some showing in North Carolina if the people had no intelligence.

ATTACKED CAPTAIN

Savage Assault Made Upon Master of Schooner Emma S. Lord in Port.

NEGRO WITH LONG KNIFE

Made at Capt. Richards. Because He Remonstrated With Him About His Insolent Conduct—Was Steward On The Ship.

A savage attack was made upon Capt. Richards, of the schooner Emma S. Lord, by the negro steward aboard yesterday morning about 7:30 o'clock at the mill of the Kidder Lumber Company, in the southern part of the city, where the vessel is receiving a cargo for the West Indies. Capt. Richards, being every inch a man, was able to defend himself from serious injury, but unfortunately he was unable to deal with the negro as the circumstances seemed to have justified before the mutinous member of the crew scrambled over the rail of the ship and made his escape.

It appears that the colored steward, who is a physical giant, had been giving Capt. Richards much trouble ever since the vessel came into port. He was drunk half his time and was frequently ashore in this condition when his services were needed aboard the ship. It was also reported to Capt. Richards that the negro had been insolent to the meat dealers and others to whom he was sent for supplies for the ship. The negro's conduct became so notorious that yesterday morning when Capt. Richards started ashore he went into the galley to remonstrate with the man. The negro was in an ugly mood and applied a vile epithet to the captain. No sooner were the words out of his mouth than the white man grabbed the negro at the throat to administer the drubbing that he so richly deserved. The steward swung around and grabbed a long meat knife and made a lunge at Capt. Richards, who threw up his hand just in time to shield himself from the blow, the point of the knife striking him in the forehead, inflicting only a slight wound, however. As he warded off the blow, Capt. Richards in the extremity of the case, grabbed the long knife by the blade and broke it into splinters at the cost of having his middle finger nearly cut off. With the broken end of the knife the negro came at him again and slashed the captain across the thumb and in the palm of the hand. About this time the mate heard the commotion and ran in to see the predicament of the white man. He laid hold of the negro but the black man tore himself loose, ran out on deck and scampered over the rail and away. It was well that he did for Capt. Richards was awaiting an opportunity to get to his pistol and would have secured the weapon but for a door being jammed.

Capt. Richards had his injuries dressed and came up town to report to his agent, Capt. C. D. Maffitt, who has the matter in charge. The negro has not since put in his appearance. There was much feeling among the marine men who heard of the occurrence yesterday and the black man would no doubt have been dealt summary punishment had he put in an appearance at an opportune time.

Capt. Richards is one of the most popular shipmasters in port and many expressed regret yesterday that circumstances forbade his handling the belligerent member of the crew as he should have been handled.

Mrs. Jno. K. Hamblin Dead. Friends will regret to learn of the death of Mrs. E. Beecher Hamblin, wife of Mr. Jno. K. Hamblin, a prominent young attorney of Union, S. C., which occurred yesterday at the James Walker Memorial Hospital where she had been under treatment the past 26 days. She was a daughter of Mr. Jno. L. Croom and was only 25 years of age. The remains were sent yesterday morning to the old home of both the wife and husband at Magnolia, N. C., for interment.

THE FALL SESSION

Dr. Hamilton Being Heard With Fine Effect at First Baptist Church—He Speaks of Satan and His Snarles.

Wilmington pastors and ruling elders who attended the Fall session of Wilmington Presbytery at Mount Horeb church, up the Cape Fear river, have returned home and express themselves in every way gratified with the business transacted by the body and with the entertainment given them by the people in the section where the meeting was held.

The opening sermon Tuesday night was preached by the Rev. R. M. Mann, of Clinton, and the business sessions began Wednesday. Rev. K. McCaskill, of the Pt. Caswell group of churches, was elected moderator and presided with ability over the deliberations of the body. Messrs. W. J. Boney, of Wallace, and P. Pearsall, of Wilmington, were the clerks. The morning sermon was by Rev. J. M. Wells, D. D., on Wednesday and Dr. McClure, of Wilmington, preached at night. Thursday morning the sermon was by Rev. J. S. Crowley, of this city, and at night by Rev. W. P. M. Currie. All are spoken of as strong sermons and greatly enjoyed by the Presbytery.

In the group of churches where the sessions were held Rev. L. E. Wells is in charge and the work is prospering to an unusual degree. A handsome new parsonage is being built at Bladenboro and spiritually the church is growing.

Special interest was taken in education and very fine reports were received, especially from James Sprunt Institute, at Kenansville, which is more prosperous now than ever before in its history.

By a vote of 10 to 4 the Presbytery decided not to approve the articles of agreement as to the Northern church, which was submitted by the General Assembly to the Presbyteries. A number of the delegates, to the Presbytery were in the city yesterday, returning to their homes.

DUNN, "THE LITTLE JOKER."

Large Audience Last Night Witnessed Return of Favorite Comedian.

Arthur Dunn, the diminutive comedian in the "Little Joker," was the offering at the Academy of Music last night and a large audience was well pleased with the production. Mr. Dunn fits the piece and the part and was seen to striking advantage in a clever supporting company during the evening. There is nothing gaudy about the show but the lines are clever and bright throughout. The chorus is pretty and talented; different from the ordinary chorists to which the public is accustomed in that the short skirt is eliminated and there is an absence of tinsel and tights that is refreshing. The costuming was, however, elaborate and very pleasing.

A Romantic Marriage.

News reaches the city of a romantic marriage near Atkinson, N. C., on Wednesday. The parties to the romance were Mr. Jackson Aiken, of Louisiana, and Miss Adella Herring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Herring, of Atkinson, who met at the station by prearrangement and proceeded to Ivanhoe where they were made man and wife by Justice of the Peace Usher Newkirk. Mr. Aiken formerly lived at Atkinson and he and his bride are now guests at the home of the groom's parents, near the village.

Cars to Beach Sunday.

The Consolidated Company announces that cars will be run through to the beach over the trestle Sunday. It is hoped to get the line in shape through to Lumina, if possible. At any rate the cars will run over the trestle and to as far as Station No. 5. This will give everybody a fine opportunity of seeing the effect of the recent storm over at the beach.

Slashed a Colored Woman.

Carrie Stewart, an habitude of the disreputable part of the city known as Dross Neck, was sent to the hospital early last night with an ugly slash across her breast. She went screaming to the Carolina Central depot and the ambulance was telephoned for from there. She said that a negro named Norris Johnston cut her.

Vessel With Cargo.

The British steamer Ribston, Capt. Maxfield, cleared last night for Liverpool, England, with cargo of 11,027 bales of cotton, valued at $599,675, and consigned by Messrs. Alexander Sprunt & Son. The British steamer Nollsement will probably clear to-day.

"UNIVERSITY DAY"

Alumni of North Carolina's Leading Educational Institution Honored Alma Mater

"SMOKER" AT THE ORTON

Association Elects Officers For Ensuing Year—Prof. Noble, Messrs. Martin, Bellamy and Emple Among Those Who Spoke.

Between forty and fifty loyal sons of their alma mater assembled last night at The Orton and very fittingly celebrated "University Day," which is described by those in attendance as having been a very delightful affair. The celebration took the form of an informal smoker in the dining rooms of The Orton which were very neatly decorated in honor of the occasion. Dr. George G. Thomas presided as toastmaster and proved himself a genius at the direction of such an affair. Among the set addresses were very happy responses by Prof. M. C. G. Noble, of the faculty of the University; Mr. Eugene S. Martin, Mr. Marsden Bellamy, Jr. and State Senator Brooke G. Emple. There were also a number of impromptu toasts which were greatly enjoyed. The athletic feature was made prominent and the reminiscent indulgence of the different alumni was not the least interesting of the exercises. The smoker continued until well towards midnight and the guests of the evening were delighted with the success of the affair.

Previous to the "banquet" the Wilmington Alumni Association of the University met in the parlors of The Orton at 8:30 o'clock and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows:

President—Mr. E. S. Martin.
Vice President—Mr. J. O. Carr.
Secretary—Mr. Benjamin Bell, Jr.
Treasurer—Mr. E. Payson Willard.
"University Day" is an institution founded several years ago for the purpose of fostering the University spirit among the alumni all over the country and its celebration is simultaneous everywhere. The celebrations are always very fitting in Wilmington, where there are more than a hundred University men.

A MONKEY IN COURT.

Justice Bornemann Had an Interesting Defendant Yesterday.

A real, live monkey, a stray pet of some one, was arrested yesterday and brought before Justice Bornemann on a charge of trespass. Upon being brought into court the simian and the "Judge" gazed into one another's eyes and the one, was puzzled not less than the other. The "monk" inquired out of a very expressive pair of eyes: "Whatcher goin to do about it?" and the blank countenance of Justice Bornemann seemed to answer "damfino."

It all came about this way. A little boy came running into the Justice's office yesterday and said that a monkey had come to their house on South Third street and would not be driven away. The female members of the household were shut in by the presence of the monkey on the front porch and the boy was sent to see what could be done. Justice Bornemann sent Constable Savage on the delicate mission of arresting the quadruped and after a chase of some length, the big officer who used to own a pet of the simian type himself brought the offender into court. The monkey pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to lone confinement on the back porch of the Justice's office until the owner put in an appearance. Later in the afternoon a lady came in and modestly confessed the ownership of the "monk" and he was carried home.

FIRE LAST NIGHT.

Kitchen at Residence of Mrs. Henrietta Shepard Burned.

Fire of unknown origin last night about 10:30 o'clock burned the kitchen at the rear of the residence of Mrs. Henrietta Shepard, No. 208 South Fourth street. The flames had burst out the roof almost before it was discovered by persons in the house and the Fire Department did not reach the scene until about $250 damage had been done. The alarm was from box 48 at 10:27 o'clock. The loss is covered by insurance with the Willard-Giles agency.

SPOKE WITH POWER

Annual Meeting of Wilmington Presbytery Mt. Horeb Church—Much Business Dispatched With Fine Sermons.

A large and attentive congregation again attended the First Baptist Church last night and heard an excellent sermon by Dr. Hamilton, the evangelist. Following the reading of the Scripture lesson and a solo by the Rev. Mr. Wakefield, Dr. Hamilton's collaborer, the Rev. Dr. A. D. McClure, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church offered prayer, earnestly petitioning that the protracted meeting may be abundantly blessed in the saving of many souls.

Dr. Hamilton preached on the subject: "If you, or I were Satan," and spoke in part as follows:

"I almost fear to announce my subject to-night because it will sound sensational. However, it is not and I believe you will bear witness to this after I am through. "What position the devil held before his fall, we do not know, but we are quite certain that he is a being of great power and great influence. There is too much talk of a Satan having horns and hoofs and tail. The devil is not merely the old serpent, the father of lies and the murderer, but is described as a ruler, prince of this world, and the power of the air. So knowing what we do about Satan what would be your plans to drag men down to Hell? Several things suggest themselves to my mind that would be tried if we were in Satan's place. First, I would do all in my power to make sin triumph, and to accomplish this would make it attractive and fascinating. If this did not succeed in tempting a man I would put something deceptive in it. This is one of the devil's best tricks, to so cover the hook with the bait that it cannot be seen. The devil is an adept in catching us and having us bound before we are aware of it.

"If this plan of making sin fascinating, attractive and deceptive did not succeed I would endeavor to encompass man's ruin by trying to take the Bible away from him. Take it away from his home, and heart and try to keep him from hearing God's word read. I would try to banish it from his memory. The devil is as anxious to keep the Bible from us as the criminal hates to hear the testimony of the witnesses against him. If a man who I, as Satan, was trying to ruin would read the Bible I would try and get him to criticize it. God pity the man who thinks he can contradict the Book, or who is following some one who he believes is wise enough to pick flaws in it.

"Again, if I were Satan I would do what I could to destroy the power of the church. I would put the laugh on the consistent and active members for an active church means the salvation of the lost. I would try to make every church member inconsistent and let other people stumble over them into Hell. If I could get up a fight and split the church in two, I would do so. These not succeeding I would endeavor to spread false doctrines, would teach that Jesus was a good man but was not divine. Another and last plan would be to get men to delay in accepting Christ. You are young yet, and there is plenty of time, later you will understand better. I would say all this were I Satan, for the Word says, "he is a liar and the father of lies."

Dr. Hamilton closed with an earnest appeal that every unsaved person in the congregation come forward and accept Christ then and not put the matter off longer.

This morning at 10 o'clock a special service for children and their parents will be held. To-night at 7:30 the regular services will be conducted, Dr. Hamilton preaching.

The woman's prayer service will be omitted this afternoon as will also the young men's meeting to-night.

Mayor's Court Yesterday.

Before the Mayor yesterday Messrs. J. F. Jarman, the druggist, and Mr. Paul Case, of the firm of Caase & Schuler, were arraigned on a charge of obstructing the sidewalks in front of their places of business. No wilful violation was shown and the defendants were let off with the cost. Other cases before the Mayor yesterday were not important. Joe Brown, colored, was arraigned but it was found that he was insane and he was ordered remanded to the county authorities.

COLD WAVE WANING

Heavy Frost In All Sections of the Wilmington District Yesterday Morning.

THE WEATHER CONDITIONS

Thermometer to 35 Degrees Here, While Average In State Was About 30—Warmer Temperatures Are Promised To-day.

The unprecedented cold weather continued yesterday in the Wilmington section and Weather Bureau district. Yesterday morning there was a heavy frost and in the city the thermometer reached the low mark of the season—35 degrees. The average for the district, however, was much lower, 30 degrees being the minimum. Charlotte reported 32, Goldsboro 31, Greensboro 26, Lumberton 28, Newbern 31, Raleigh 32, Weldon 27, Florence, S. C., 33 and Cheraw, S. C., 30. The heavy frosts were reported at Wilmington Lumberton and Newbern. Killing frosts occurred at Charlotte, Cheraw, Florence, Goldsboro, Greensboro, Raleigh and Weldon. Although yesterday was somewhat warmer than the day before the temperature did not go above 57 for the day. The mean was 46 for the 24 hours ending at 8 o'clock last night.

The cotton region bulletin issued yesterday by the Weather Bureau says: "No frosts in the Galveston, New Orleans, Vicksburg, Little Rock, and Oklahoma districts. Light frosts in the Savannah, Montgomery, and Memphis districts, light to heavy in the Mobile, and heavy to killing in the Augusta, Charleston, Atlanta and Wilmington. Temperatures are now rising in the belt."

The weather conditions all over the country as given on the map yesterday morning are as follows: "The high pressure area is central this morning over the Atlantic coast districts and cool weather continued in the eastern sections with heavy to killing frosts reported southward into the Carolinas and Georgia.

"Temperatures are rising in the rear of the high area, due to a disturbance moving eastward from the Rocky Mountain region.

"Fair weather prevails over the greater portion of the country and precipitation has occurred over a comparatively small area.

The high area covering this section is passing slowly eastward, and fair weather with a slow rise in temperature may be expected."

In the Wilmington section there were no crops that could have been materially affected by the cold. In the Piedmont section of the State, however, there are reports that the top cotton crop is cut off. The conditions elsewhere in the cotton belt are told of above and in the telegraphic columns of to-day's paper.

Crazy Drunk; Drew Pistol.

Thos. Lawson, a white man said to live on Greenville Sound and employed as a watchman at one of the compresses in the city, was arrested yesterday morning and locked up at the Police station by Officer E. J. Grimsley, after he had been ejected from the store of Messrs. Baggett Brothers, on South Front street, by Mr. L. W. Baggett, one of the proprietors. Lawson drew a pistol during the encounter with the storekeeper but was quickly disarmed. A charge of drunk and disorderly was lodged against him at the police station and he will be tried before the Mayor to-day at noon. It is said that by virtue of his position as a watchman, he is a special policeman and if so, the charge of carrying a concealed weapon will probably not be pressed against him, though he will likely lose his badge.

Adjutant Wiggins Resigns.

Adjutant G. N. Wiggins, who for the past several months has had charge of the Seamen's Home in this city, has resigned to take effect November 1st, and will return to the Salvation Army work. He will not, however, be connected with the Wilmington post but has accepted a command at Bradford, Pa. Mrs. Wiggins and two children left for Bradford some time ago and Mrs. Wiggins will be in charge of the work until Adjutant Wiggins is relieved here. He is very popular in Wilmington and news of his intended departure will be received with great regret.

STEEL TRUST TO CONTROL CEMENT.

We do not suppose there is any great reason for alarm over a statement made about ten days ago that the Steel Trust was laying plans to monopolize the cement industry of this country, or to at least, manufacture such a quantity as to control the price. The announcement made from Chicago that the United States Steel Corporation proposes to control the industry in Chicago, invade the East and exceed by 10 per cent. the entire output of the country, naturally attracted much attention. Fortunately, however, or unfortunately, according to the point of view, the Great Steel Trust does not at present intend to attempt to outstrip the efforts of all the other cement factories combined. It is stated that when its new plants are completed they may turn out 6,000,000 barrels per annum, but if they do this will not be more than approximately one-sixth of the production of the United States. For some years the Illinois Steel Company, a branch of the Trust, has been engaged in the making of Universal Portland cement from crushed limestone and chilled blast furnace slag and it is this product which it is intended now to make on so much more extensive a scale.

The cement industry attracts more than usual attention now from the fact that it enters tremendously into the building operations of this country. The manufacture of cement blocks to build houses has immensely increased the cement industry in the United States and the use of this building material has been extensively introduced into the South. We have in Wilmington some handsome houses built of cement blocks, and it is stated that it is now the cheapest material from which a building can be erected.

The use of cement blocks for building, is not new. About seventy years ago a New York banker had erected for himself on the north shore of Staten Island a residence constructed of cement blocks. By his contemporaries, no doubt, he was rated a new and rather exaggerated specimen of the crank-genius, for, although cement had at that time been applied to many useful purposes, its advantages as a structural material were only partially understood. In 1835, indeed, a cement house was probably deemed a silly as well as bold experiment, but the Staten Island residence, although unused, still stands, and by its successful resistance to the ravages of time bears mute testimony to the far-sightedness of the man responsible for its erection.

As yet dwellings made of cement blocks are still rather unusual in some parts of the country, but are by no means rare in the West, and large structures, including churches, theatres and office buildings, constructed of cement, reinforced with steel rods, are in all parts of the United States rapidly becoming common place objects. Popular as this new method of building already is, it promises to increase in favor rapidly, particularly since the San Francisco earthquake and fire, when, it is claimed, that its superiority over older modes of construction in the withstanding of shocks and flames was satisfactorily demonstrated.

The Boston Commercial Bulletin remarks that there are reasons, other than its fireproof qualities, for believing that concrete is destined to increase in public favor as a building material. For the constant talk of our vanishing forests, heard on all sides, there is, unfortunately, some foundation, and prices of lumber, high as they are, will in all probability advance further during the next few years. It looks, indeed, as though frame houses might before very long become a luxury to be enjoyed only by the rich and well-to-do.

—The importance to a city of having its real population known abroad, is very pointedly and forcibly set forth in to-day's paper, in an article contributed by Mr. S. Wittkowsky. It is a strong argument not only for the letting out of Charlotte's restricted boundary lines, but for letting them out so as to cover liberal territory. The government census report, covering only the inhabitants within the old limits of Charlotte, is an absolute drawback to the city. It gave Charlotte city, in 1900, a population of 18,091; Charlotte township 26,312. Those are the figures people get when looking into Charlotte's population. On November 14th, last year, The Chronicle showed that Charlotte city then had a population of 41,500. Isn't it time for us to do something?—Charlotte Chronicle.

ROCK CLIFF LITHIA SPRINGS WATER.

READ WHAT ONE OF THE MOST NOTED CITIZENS OF SOUTH CAROLINA HAS TO SAY OF THE FAMOUS ROCK CLIFF SPRINGS WATER.

Spartanburg, S. C., July 24.
To Rock Cliff Lithia Springs Co.:

Gentlemen:—This will certify that I was severely afflicted with a serious case of erysipelas, that confined me to my bed for about six months or more, with daily attendance of my physician, and which eventually settled in my left leg and became so severe that a consultation of three physicians was held and the decision reached that the lower part of my leg would have to be amputated to prevent the disease extending to the upper part of my leg and body. I declined the operation and was advised to try Rock Cliff Lithia Springs Water. I engaged board near the spring and was advised to bathe my leg in the water, at the same time drinking freely.

This application soon soothed the pain, and for the first time in months previous I slept for about two hours. After a week's treatment, without any medicine or physician's help, I walked to the spring on crutches. I continued the treatment daily, and within two weeks was able to walk to the spring without crutches and in four weeks was able to walk home, a distance of 1½ miles, and resume my official business.

I was permanently cured by the use of the water, and take great pleasure in giving you this testimonial to the efficiency of the Rock Cliff Springs Water in the treatment of erysipelas.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

—There will be a room for checking ladies' baskets and parcels free of charge at the State Fair in Raleigh.

—The Daughters of the Confederacy of the State proposes to build a memorial arch over the entrance of the Confederate Cemetery at Raleigh.

—At State Democratic headquarters, at Raleigh, it is said that there are now thirty speakers in the field. In North Carolina, exclusive of Congressmen.

—Winston Special, October 11: Passengers coming in from North Wilkesboro to-day report that they encountered a snowstorm at Roaring Gap. The cold snap last night caused much loss to brick manufacturers. One firm reports the destruction of almost 100,000 brick near this city.

—Lumberton Robesonian: Postmaster Norment has received a letter from the fourth assistant Postmaster general, ordering him to remain at the office here all mail directed to parties on rural routes who have not complied with the regulations to provide themselves with approved mail boxes within the next 60 days.

—Washington, N. C., Special, Oct. 11: W. J. Bradshaw, of Wilmington, N. C., was in the city last evening, after having made a tour over the proposed route of the Washington and Vandemere Railroad. Captain Bradshaw will more than probably construct this road. He is very much pleased with the outlook. It will open up one of the richest countries in North Carolina.

—Asheville Special, October 11: This city and section was given a taste of genuine winter yesterday and last night. The first snow fall of the season in Asheville occurred early last evening when the "beautiful" began sifting downward and, while little showing was made on the ground, the flakes were nevertheless distinctly visible to the eye and more than one citizen looked for a considerable fall.

—Wilson Special, October 11: Something happened this week on the Wilson market and on one of the warehouse floors, which has never before in the history of the market or probably anywhere in Eastern Carolina, double sales going on at one and the same time, on the same floor. One auctioneer with his buyers began at one side of the house, while another with his buyers began on the other side.

—Spencer Special, October 11: M. T. Rowe, aged about 22 years, a brakeman on the Southern Railway, was killed on the Spencer yards at a late hour last night by falling from a train on which he was working. Mr. Rowe was on top of a shifting freight train when he lost his balance and fell to the ground, breaking his neck and dying instantly. His body was also badly crushed about the chest and other internal injuries sustained.

—The handsome residence of D. J. Lewis, Esq., one of the handsomest in the town of Whiteville was destroyed by fire on Thursday morning. The alarm was given about nine o'clock. Despite the combined efforts of the citizens the building was consumed. Though about all the household goods were saved the loss is estimated to be between $4,000 and $5,000, with insurance of $3,500. The fire started from a defective flue or from coals falling on the roof.

—Reidsville Special, October 11: Mrs. Tiney Durham, a young lady residing in the western part of Reidsville, has been critically ill for the past several days, her illness resulting from drinking a bottle of poison on last Sunday. Her condition for several hours was considered serious, but restoratives applied brought her around all right. Mrs. Durham, who was Miss Duncan, was married only a few weeks ago. It is said that domestic troubles caused the young woman to attempt to end her life.

—Raleigh News and Observer, Oct. 12: The date of the meeting of policyholders of the Mutual Life and New York Life Insurance Companies is changed from October 16th of October 18th. Insurance Commissioner Young, who announces this, says the committees appointed by the policyholders have received answers to their questions from both companies and the policyholders' committees. These will be represented at the meeting on the 18th by officials who can answer all questions and give any information desired.

—Winston-Salem Special, October 11: The surveyors have completed their work of locating the line for the Southbound Railway between this city and Wadesboro. Four resident engineers will be located along the line at once to make the necessary arrangements for bids from contractors. The only delay in pushing the construction work is in rights of way, which are being secured as rapidly as possible. When owners of land demand exorbitant prices condemnation proceedings are being instituted. The building of the Southbound is assured.

—Lincolnton Correspondence, Charlotte News, Oct. 11: Marion Butler spoke here yesterday, but if it hadn't your teeth

should be clean as well as look clean. Nothing known affects both results so perfectly as this well-known dentifrice.

Meade & Baker's Carbolic Mouth Wash

been for the tunes played by a band that turned up, from Heaven knows where, one would not have thought anything unusual was going on. Lincolnton and Lincoln county generally pursued the even tenor of their way without much reference to Butler. He spoke in the court house to a small audience. Editor Cilek was the only out-of-town person your correspondent saw during the day. Mr. Butler's speech seemed to be for the most part a bitter attack on Democracy past and present.

—Washington, D. C., Special, Oct. 11: Interesting and possibly sensational developments may come to light during the next few days in the case of Hilda Barnes, the young English girl who came to Washington about ten days ago from Charlotte, alleging that she had started to New York with a male companion and that he had deserted her at Charlotte. The Observer's correspondent went to the bureau of immigration to-day to ascertain what steps had been taken in the matter since the girl had been placed in the house of detention here a few days ago. The officials of the bureau have the matter under advisement and something may possibly be given to the public during the next few days, but at this time there are no developments that the bureau wishes to have made public. Investigations are now on foot.

—Salisbury Special, October 11: The Republicans are preparing to have an effective campaign in this county and Messrs. Blackburn and Jake Newell, the latter of Mecklenburg fame, will do the work. They will have a great rally next week in advance of the Democrats, who will have ex-Governor Aycock for that week. The Democratic rally will follow the Republican and it will be a big occasion. Then early in the week the China Grove people will have Governor Glenn with them and will give a basket picnic. The county is more aroused than it has been for many years and will certainly be thoroughly canvassed before the election takes place. Chairman Boyden has had formal answer from the Republican chairman, Capt. John A. Ramsay, that he declines the offer of joint issue and the two parties will travel separate roads.

ORIENTAL FRUIT BATS

They Descend Upon Orchards With Devastating Fury.

The big oriental fruit bats, or flying foxes, so familiar in India, Ceylon and the Malay region, feed on all sorts of soft fruits except acid ones, such as oranges; are especially fond of figs and guavas and are a destructive pest to orchards and gardens. In some parts of Java, for example, no delicate fruit can be raised except by protecting the trees with nets and fighting off the nightly forays of bands of kalongs.

They live and travel in vast companies, roosting by day on chosen trees, where they hang by one hind leg, each protected from the sun's glare and from rain in the closely wrapped mantle of its wings, and large branches frequently break under the weight. At sunset they fly away to their feeding grounds, scattering over a wide area.

Where a fig tree or banana thicket attracts a crowd the roughest fighting begins over coveted plunder, each one screaming, clawing, biting and struggling to seize something and get away to a secure retreat to enjoy it. There he hangs by one foot, and grasping the fruit he has secured in the claws and opposable thumb of the other, he hastily reduces it to lumps, with which he stuffs his cheek pouches until they become distended like those of a monkey. Later he chews and swallows this food at leisure.

At dawn all return to their roosts and, says Tickell, "hook themselves along the branches, scrambling about hand over hand with some speed, biting each other severely, striking out with the long claws of the thumb, shrieking and cackling without intermission."

No doubt these squabbles are rendered more violent by the disgracefully dissipated habits in which the bats indulge during their nocturnal expeditions, for, according to Francis Day and other observers, "they often pass the night drinking the toddy from the chattries in the cocoanut trees, which results either in their returning home in the early morning in a state of extreme and riotous intoxication or in being found the next day at the foot of the trees, sleeping off the effects of their midnight debauch."

Our Millinery Department has proven its value to you by the very work we speak of and more new ideas find their introduction here than any other store in this city can boast of. And with all we charge but moderately, never more than other stores, nine times out of ten much less.

WILD WEST SHOWS.

Pawnee Bill's Big Aggregation Will Reach Here To-morrow Morning.Pawnee Bill's Wild West and Great Far East Shows will reach here early to-morrow morning on special trains from Fayetteville where two exhibitions will be given to-day. The shows have been in Eastern North Carolina for a week or ten days and the press in every city where they have appeared have been unstinted in its praise of the big tented enterprise. The Consolidated Company is making special arrangements to handle the large crowds Monday and also to-morrow when thousands will visit the grounds to see the interesting scene of unloading the animals, paraphernalia, etc., and the erection of the tents. From Wilmington the shows go to Whiteville, N. C., and then for a tour in South Carolina.There are some whose business engagements may prevent them from attending the performance of the Pawnee Bill shows, but those so unfortunate should not fail to see the grand street parade on the morning of the day of exhibition. Over a mile in length and full of novelties, it is said to be unquestionably the grandest street pageant that ever passed through the streets.

Pounded Their Pastor.

Rev. A. J. Parker and his estimable family were quite pleasantly surprised early last evening, the occasion having been an old-fashioned "Methodist pounding" as it was expressed. Just as Mr. Parker was preparing to go out on some pastoral duty early in the evening the doors of the parsonage flew open and very soon the pastor and his good wife were surrounded by enthusiastic members of Bladen Street congregation and they brought with them a veritable storehouse of good things. It was quite a pleasant surprise and Rev.
Mr. Parker has every reason for the sound conviction that he is now among the best people on earth.

The New Hotel Project.

A prominent capitalist and hotel promoter of Illinois has been in the city several days conferring in regard to the proposed tourist hotel for Wil-the enterprise with home capital and to arrange for the successful launching of the project. A meeting was held yesterday afternoon at the office of Mr. W. A. Dick, chairman of the Hotel Committee, but nothing definite was accomplished. Present at the meeting were Mr. Dick, Mr. Wm.

Calder, Mr. C. N. Evans and Mr. C. L.
Dickinson.

A THRILLING MINUTE.

It Made Up in Intensity of Terror What It Lacked in Time.The adventure of a contributor to Science lasted but a minute, but it made up in intensity of terror what it lacked in duration of time. The writer tells his own story:Some years ago while I was making researches in an excavation near Frankfort, O., the center wall of the mound was undermined by the workmen, and I was struck by a mass of falling earth. I had just stooped to examine a small bone which had been uncovered when earth to the amount of several cart loads dropped on me.
No one else was in the excavation, the men having gone to the top of the mound.The falling mass knocked me backward, and I fell with my head and shoulders on a small heap of earth. The falling wall of earth looked black to me, and I well remember the rush of wind it brought.At first I felt little pain, only intense pressure, which forced the buttons of my costume partly inside my flesh.
My watch was pressed tight against two ribs which were broken. The skin on my forehead seemed cut, but it was the pressure of my hat forcing the flesh between the straw. The knife in my pocket seemed burning hot. Just under the small of my back was a large clod which gave me unendurable pain, as if my spine were slowly breaking. Then it stopped, and I felt nothing.Thoughts raced through my head like lightning, thoughts of the past, present and future. I remember trying in vain to move a hand or a finger. I was perfectly motionless. My chest could not be inflated, and the downward pressure had forced the air out of my lungs. I could move my chin and open and shut my mouth. I tried to keep my mouth closed to prevent its being filled, but it instinctively opened, and the earth fell in. Then the assurance of strangling came to me, but I did not much care.It was just sixty seconds, the surveyor said, before the men reached me and I felt the earth move slightly. A shovel struck my scalp and cut me. It felt like red-hot iron. When my head was uncovered the pressure on my body was so great the blood was forced to my head until my rescuers feared my veins would burst.I observed everything, but could not move. The partial paralysis lasted several days. I have never wholly recovered from the effects of my adventure.
I cannot enter a cave or stand near a bank of earth without terrible sensations.

WHAT THE HAIR TELLS.

Auburn hair means a kindly, sympathetic nature.Straight hair indicates more power to govern than curly hair.Curls denote a feeble sense of right and wrong, gaiety, vivacity, self confidence.Straight black hair, growing coarse and thick, indicates more order and industry than mental power.Fine brown hair only accompanies excellent minds. Generally the owner has intellectual tendencies.Red hair is strongly characteristic of half way business there. It usually indicates a quick temper, though there are exceptions.Beautiful golden hair is rarely seen on persons of a gross nature. Its owner loves fine arts and possesses exquisite sensibilities.Hair and eyebrows differing in color indicate race mixture and bespeak a wavering, unsteady nature.As a rule, smooth, fine, softly wav-

POWER OF CHEERFULNESS.

The Way One Druggist Lightens the Hills of His Customers.A pale, weak girl entered a downtown drug store the other day. She seemed about to collapse. The propi-etor assisted her into a chair and prepared a mild stimulant for her. The druggist's manner was so sympathetic that a little later she confided to him that she suffered with her heart and feared she had not much longer to live."Heart disease?" inquired the druggist genially. "Why, I have heart disease myself; have had it for years.
That's nothing. I don't worry myself about it. I don't look like a man with a load on his mind, do I? You probably think that you are liable to drop off any time. On the contrary, any doctor will tell you that the average person with heart disease generally lives to a good old age. The very care that a sufferer from heart disease takes of himself or herself is calculated to lengthen the years indefinitely. You see, a man with a weak heart naturally is careful of himself a bit. He doesn't commit any excesses, never overdoes anything, lives in moderation and thus keeps his vitality unimpaired. That's all you have to do—just take care of yourself. What's the use of worrying?"The druggist's cheerfulness was infectious, the genial interest of his talk made depression appear foolish, and the girl soon began to look more hopeful and even smiled. After the druggist had gayly chatted with her awhile she rose and walked out of the store with a firm step.This druggist, though he would scorn the idea if suggested to him, is a benefactor to humanity. He is a believer in the power of cheerfulness, and the good that he does in his peculiar way is not easy to estimate.Not a day passes that he does not impart his message of the cheerful life to some despairing individual. He makes all others' ailments his own and points out the uselessness of worry. A man will come in bent and suffering.
Perhaps he confides to the druggist that he has kidney disease and fears his days are numbered. The druggist immediately informs him that there is no cause for alarm; he has had kidney trouble himself for, oh, so many years, and has no intention of dropping off.
That druggist, in the course of a week, probably will acknowledge that he is afflicted with every ailment except household's knee. He makes every complainant feel better. He fairly radiates good cheer and optimism. It is his belief that half the sufferers in the world have complaints that bright spirits will overcome. But even when they have a real disease it is his theory that a little cheerfulness doesn't hurt and that the malady is only aggravated by constant depression. He makes it his mission in life to drive away depression and turn the thoughts of people toward brighter things. His cheerfulness is a tonic that never fails to act.—New York Press.

Test For Ready Boiled Lobsters.

Should ready boiled lobsters be purchased, test them by gently drawing back the tail, which should rebound with a spring. If the tail is not curled up and will not spring back when straightened the lobster was dead when boiled and should not be eaten. Choose the smaller lobsters that are heavy for their size, as the larger ones are apt to be coarse and tough. Lobsters weighing from one and a half to three pounds are the best in size. All parts of the lobster are wholesome and may be used, except the stomach, which is a small hard sack and contains poisonous matter and lies directly under the head, and a little vein which runs the entire length of the tail.

SCOTCH SUPERSTITIONS.

Curious Methods That Were Adopted in Sickness and Death.A method much in vogue in Scotland at one time of ascertaining whether a sickness would prove fatal was to dig two holes in the ground, one called the quick grave, the other the dead hole.
The sufferer was then placed between the two, and the hole toward which he turned indicated what would be the outcome of his malady. Sometimes a piece of rock was broken over the head of a person whose last agonies were painful alike to himself and to those who witnessed them. It was believed that the heart of the sick man would thus be broken and his release hastened. Windows and doors are always thrown wide open in order that the departing spirit may have free egress from the house and escape from the evil ones that hover around eager to inhabit his soul.During the interval between death and burial hens and cats were kept carefully shut up. A person meeting these animals at such a juncture was doomed to blindness in the future.
Moreover, unless a stream divided the two houses, farmers frequently refrained from yoking their oxen or horses before the body was "laid under the turf of truth." Many women preserved, with the greatest reverence, their bridal attire to cover them in the coffin. Bread and water were placed in the chamber of death, for during the night prior to the burial the spirit of the departed one came to partake of them. Stillborn children and little ones who had not been blessed by the minister were buried before sunrise. In this way their admission to the land of promise was assured. (Not to observe the practice was to destine the souls of these bairns to wander homeless and disconsolate.The fate of the suicide is lamentable.
His body cannot rest in the kirkyard, for it would taint the souls of those who lie therein. Frequently he was buried in a lone dike which separated two lairds' estates, and passersby were expected to cast a pebble at the rude stone which marked the place.

Finding an Heir

(Original.)

Sidney Pleasandon was despondent. Was he in love? No. Was he impoverished? No; he was rich. Was he in poor health? He was exceptionally healthy. Then what was the matter with him? He had been thwarted in one desire. He wished to find some kin to whom he might leave his fortune, and, contrary to the usual happening in such cases, no one with a drop of Pleasandon blood in his or her veins was to be found.

Pleasanton had run away from his home in England when a lad and, coming to America, had been so absorbed in business that he had not had time to trouble himself about his British relatives. His father was a country gentleman and well to do. Sidney thought that when he could go back with a fortune to make him welcome he would do so; otherwise he would remain away. Forty years after his departure he went back with the fortune, but not a member or descendant from the Pleasanton family could be found. All were dead save the daughter of one of Sidney Pleasanton's sisters. Her mother had married without the consent of the head of the family and had disappeared. The homestead had passed to others.

What we prize in youth we are apt to consider worthless in old age, and vice versa. Pleasanton returned to America with an exalted appreciation for what was denied him—the family he had so long neglected. If he had discovered one member of the family, no matter how remote, he would have found some satisfaction in making him or her happy with a fortune after his own death.

Pleasanton, on his way to his office one day, passed a small house with a little ground in its front protected by a wooden fence. One morning a little girl about four years old, perched on the gate, smiled at him. There was something in the smile that went to the lonely man's heart. The next morning when he passed again the child was waiting for him and held out a dandelion flower. If a highborn dame had given him an armful of roses it would not have moved him, but the dandelion offered by the child struck a chord in his heart that had never before vibrated.

There were many love tokens passing after that between the child and the old man, and once when he went by he saw a woman looking at him curiously, if not suspiciously. He turned, went to the house, and the woman came to the door.

"Will you kindly give me your little girl's name?" he said.

"What do you want with it?" "She has bestowed upon me the only disinterested gift I have ever received. I wish to repay it. I desire to remember her in my will."

The woman looked at him quizzically. "No," she said, "you can't be her father. You're too old; but I expect you're in league with him."

"Will you please explain?" "Well, there's no use beating round the bush. I've got the child and I mean to hold on to her. When her mother died, two years ago, she left her with me, and I promised her that I'd bury her in the back woods before her father should lay hands on her. He went to the bad, you know."

"No, I don't know anything about him. I have simply seen her while passing to and from my office. If you will give me her full name, when I die she shall be remembered in my will."

"Do you really mean it?" "I do."

"She's a good little girl, sir, and I should like to have her benefited. She's like her mother, sir; not like her father a bit. Her mother's mother made a bad marriage too. She came of a fine family, sir. She had only one child, this little girl's mother. Both were good women and looked and acted like ladies. Their husbands were well connected, too, but both were worthless. The child's mother told me that her mother had married against her parents' will and they disowned her. Her husband brought her to America, promising to make a fortune and go back and show 'em that they had been mistaken in him, but he never did it. Their daughter married a man that was worthless too."

"Thank you for telling me this." He took out a pencil and a notebook. "Will you give me the child's name?" "Rosallid Gaskell."

"Any middle name?" "Yes, I believe there is a middle name, but I'll have to go and look at the writing her mother gave me to see what it is."

She went away and brought an envelope from which she drew a sheet of paper and ran her eyes over the writing that covered it, reading aloud scraps of sentences.

"Mother, Crane from England. Thirty years ago. Married Thomas Redfield. I am their only child. My husband is George Gaskell. Rosallid was born May 5, 1898. She is named Rosallid for her father's mother, a dear, good woman, and Pleasanton."

"Pleasanton?" "Yes sir."

"Go on."

"From my mother's family the Pleasantons of Chester county, England."

The old man took up the child, who was standing by, and folded her in his arms.

It was not long before Rosallid went to live with her great-uncle, a maid was hired to take care of her, and when she was older a governess began her education. The Pleasanton homestead has been purchased and will belong to her.

THE STAR CHAMBER

CONDENSED HISTORY OF A FAMOUS SCHEME OF OPPRESSION.

At First Its Objects Were Laudable, but It Subsequently Became a Cruel and Unjust Power—Some of Its Outrageous Penalties.

When the Earl of Richmond had defeated Richard III. at Bosworth and had been crowned king as Henry VII., he found the times in so troubled a state that men whose rights were infringed upon or denied them dared not apply for justice to the ordinary courts. The unblinking manner in which bribes and threats were resorted to by those that had influence over the proceedings of these courts denied to them the security of a juror's oath.

To reach a mischief that had grown so intolerable Henry, feeling himself strong enough with his second parliament, created a court made up of the highest officers of the kingdom, embracing, theoretically, the king himself, who was considered the author of all justice, to which were confided unlimited power and discretion over a large, undefined class of offenses, many of which were of a political character, without the restraint of a jury and subject to no revision by appeal.

This was afterward known as the court of the star chamber, so called because the ceiling of the room in which it met was studded with stars or because in this apartment prior to the time of Edward I. the contracts of the Jews, called stars, were deposited in boxes or chests.

This scheme had good results at first. Wealthy landowners who had oppressed their neighbors with impunity were brought before this court, where neither fear nor favor could avail, and tried for their offenses. The greatest merit of the court was that it was not dependent on a jury, for juries were unable or unwilling to render a verdict in keeping with their consciences.

One said, "A court thus constituted, with powers so broad and a discretion unlimited by prescribed rules, though called into existence for wise and salutary purposes, was in the end like invoking the spirit of mischief without a corresponding power in reserve to lay it or check its excesses if inclined to abuse its authority."

Instead of losing power as the necessity for its existence passed away it drew to itself new elements of strength and enlarged the extent of its jurisdiction. It became, after successive administrations under the hands of ambitious leaders such as flourished in the time of Henry VIII., Elizabeth and the two Stuarts, a most potent engine of despotic rule and intolerance. Torture, intimidation and other devices were used to compel the accused to incriminate himself.

Charles I., through the star chamber, filled his coffers. During his reign such enormous fines were imposed for trivial offenses that the audience gathered about the courtroom at 3 o'clock in the morning to secure seats to hear the proceedings. The discretionary power of the court in the way of punishment made it a means of cruel injustice in the hands of bad men, instances of which disgrace the history of its administration during the reigns of James I. and Charles I.

One of the most remarkable cases was that of Bishop Williams, who had been lord keeper of the seal, a popular prelate and a man of learning and spirit and at one time a special favorite of James. While enjoying his patronage he exerted his influence in behalf of Laud, afterward archbishop, who owed his first promotion to his good offices. Some disagreement arose between them. Nothing would satisfy Laud but the ruin of the man who had befriended him.

On some slight pretext the bishop was brought before the star chamber and fined £10,000, committed to the Tower during the king's pleasure and suspended from office. His furniture and books were levied upon to pay the fine. Among some refuse papers were found some letters from Obaldiston, a schoolmaster, directed to the bishop. In these letters the writer spoke of a "little great man" and in one place of a "little urchin." As Laud was small of stature, it was conjectured that these terms referred to him. They were both tried, one for receiving such scandalous letters and the other for writing them. Williams paid a fine of £8,000 and Obaldiston £5,000, and he had his ears nailed to the pillory.

Prynne, a barrister at law, of Lincoln's Inn, a Puritan of the strictest sect, published his famous "Histrio Mastix," a huge volume of 1,000 quarto pages, aimed at stage plays, music dancing, public festivals, Christmas sports, bonfires and maypoles. For this alleged libelous volume he was arraigned before the star chamber.

Mr. Prynne, in his general sweep for his historical illustration of the mischief of frequenting plays, referred to Nero and spoke of Plavius and others who conspired against him for his bad example upon the magistrates and the people. The chief justice from this inferred that the author intended to instigate the people to murder the king, and Prynne was deprived of his right of practice as a barrister, condemned to stand in the pillory at Westminster and Cheapside, to lose his ears, one at each of these places, to pay a fine of £5,000 and to be imprisoned for life.

There was hardly a man in the realm who had not personal experience of the harshness and greediness of the star chamber. It became odious, and not without reason. It was abolished in 1641 as one of the acts of concession made by Charles I. to the demands of an indignant nation. Prynne and his fellow martyrs were recalled from prison. They entered London in triumph amid the shouts of the multitude, who threw laurels in their path.

AFRICAN NATIVES ANTI-FOREIGN

Ethiopian Movement Getting to Be Serious in South Africa—Natives Educated in U. S. Return as Firebrands.

(Baltimore Sun)
The "Ethiopian movement" in South Africa, the motto of which is "Africa for the Africans," is traced by the correspondent of the London Times to converted natives to England and the United States for education. In these countries the converts took in politics, it appears along with theology, so that on returning to South Africa they were firebrands. "Their travels," the Times says, "were too much for their partially developed brains," and they got what is termed "big head," making trouble among the natives by remarks upon the inferiority of the white man. About 1892 the first Ethiopian church was established in Pretoria. In 1893-4 its leaders got into relations with an American church in Philadelphia, and from that date the politics of the movement became pronounced. There was a period of shifting church ties, and when the leaders got into trouble with the authorities, secrecy was found to be convenient. Hostility to white rule was the animus of the movement before the Boer War. The political feature is secret. Periodical conferences have been held at various places, and their proceedings have been reported in the African papers of the United States and South Africa. The centers of greatest activity are in the docks at Cape Town, East London, Port Elizabeth and Durban, among the American negroes. The latter get in charge of gangs of dock hands and exert an influence over the less educated Cape negroes. Their teaching is said to be revolutionary, resembling that of our extremists during the "reconstruction" period, when conservative darkies had to protest that "the white man is as good as a negro if he 'have hisself'." The doctrines evolved at the Cape have been carried into the interior, and throughout British South Africa "Ethiopianism" is organizing the natives against the foreigners. The recent Zulu war in Natal is credited to "Ethiopianism," which seeks to break the power of the whites. It is feared that the success of the Hottentots against the Germans in Southwest Africa will go far to encourage the natives of the British sphere to make a like effort. As the natives exceed the whites in numbers many times over and are good fighters, their ideas of the "race issue," however obtained, are of very practical importance for the authorities of the British colonies.

KHAKI UNIFORMS OF OLIVE GREEN

Uncle Sam's Soldiers to Be Clothed in That Color—It's in Harmony With Landscape in Tropical Climes.

Washington, Oct. 11.—In the face of an enemy Uncle Sam's soldiers are to be as inconspicuous as possible. They are not intended to be mere targets for hostile bullets and, to the end that they may be afforded all the protection that a uniform may give them, the color of the service uniform again has been changed.
On the recommendation of a board appointed to consider the subject, it has been decided to substitute olive green for olive drab as the color of khaki intended for army uniforms. The change has induced a deal of comment in the service and protests have been made against further changes in the uniform, although the change recommended does not involve any individual expense to the soldier.
The color, olive green, was decided upon only after full consideration of the subject. It is pointed out that it possesses every quality of invisibility claimed for any color suggested as desirable for uniforms, and is especially practicable for service in the tropics, where the landscape is usually of about the color of the proposed uniform. At a comparatively short distance, the soldier attired in an olive green uniform will merge into the green surroundings so that he will be absolutely indistinguishable. In this country, in the late Autumn and Winter, the olive green uniform will stand out against the scenery very strongly, but it is considered impossible to adopt a variety of shades of uniforms to fit the seasons. It is particularly desirable that the troops in the Philippines should have a uniform that will meet their requirements.

THE REAL LINCOLN.

He Was Not Homely, and He Was Not Slovenly in Dress.

For many years it has been the fashion to call Mr. Lincoln homely. He was very tall and very thin. His eyes were deep sunken, his skin of a sallow pallor, his hair coarse, black and unruly. Yet he was neither ungraceful nor awkward nor ugly. His large features fitted his large frame, and his large hands and feet were but right on a body that measured six feet four inches. His was a sad and thoughtful face, and from boyhood he had carried a load of care. It is small wonder that when alone or absorbed in thought the face should take on deep lines, the eyes appear as if seeing something beyond the vision of other men and the shoulders stoop as though they, too, were bearing a weight. But in a moment all would be changed. The deep eyes could flash or twinkle merrily with humor or look out from under overhanging brows as they did upon the Five Points children in kindest gentleness. So, too, in public speaking, when his tall body rose to its full height, with head thrown back and his face transfigured with the fire and earnestness of his thought, he would answer Douglas in the high, clear tenor that came to him in the heat of debate, carrying his ideas so far over listening crowds. And later, during the years of war, when he pronounced with noble gravity the words of his famous addresses, not one in the throngs that heard him could truly say that he was other than a handsome man.

It has been the fashion, too, to say that he was slovenly and careless in his dress. This also is a mistake. His clothes could not fit smoothly on his gaunt and bony frame. He was no tailor's figure of a man, but from the first he clothed himself as well as his means allowed, and in the fashion of the time and place.

In reading the grotesque stories of his boyhood, of the tall strapping whose trousers left exposed a length of shin, it must be remembered not only how poor he was, but that he lived on the frontier, where other boys, less poor, were scarcely better clad. In Vandalia the blue jeans he wore were the dress of his companions as well, and later, from Springfield days on, clear through his presidency, his costume was the usual suit of black broadcloth, carefully made and scrupulously neat. He cared nothing for style. It did not matter to him whether the man with whom he talked wore a coat of the latest cut or owned no coat at all. It was the man himself that he was interested in—Helen Nicolay in St. Nicholas.

Manners.

Manners are of more importance than laws. Upon them, in a great measure, the laws depend. The law touches them but here and there, now and then, Manners are what rex or soothe, corrupt or purify, exalt or debase, barbarize or refine us, by a constant, steady, uniform, insensible operation like that of the air we breathe in. They give their whole form and color to our lives. According to their quality, they aid morals, they supply them or they totally destroy them.—Burke.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, October 12.—The cotton market was less active to-day and showed a generally easier tone under realizing and selling for a turn as a result of better weather in the South and private reports that damage from frost had been comparatively slight.

The close was steady at a decline of of 23 to 35 points. Sales were estimated 350,000 bales. Market opened easy 12 to 18 points in response to lower cables and the better weather map. At first there was some hesitation about selling for fear of a renewal of aggressive bull support but it soon developed on a rally to within 9 or 10 points of last night's final, that brokers supposed to represent important interests were selling on a scale up instead of buying and the market broke sharply. There were several reactions during the middle session but there was no appearance of important support and the market continued to work lower until it showed a net loss of about 34 to 36 points on the active months. The close was at nearly the lowest. Crop reports were badly mixed but bearish items seemed to predominate with reference to the effects of frost.

Receipts at the ports to-day 69,177 bales, against 57,292 last week and 58,688 last year. For the week 355,

000 bales against 311,868 last week, and 347,362 last year. To-day's re-

WM. R. HEARST HAS ACCEPTED

Writes Formal Letter Saying He Will Be Democrats' Nominee for Governor.

PROPOSES TO PURGE PARTY

All Trust Element Must Be Driven Out and Already Some Have Gone to Republican Party Where They Belong.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)
Elmira, N. Y., October 12.—William Randolph Hearst to-day formally accepted the Democratic nomination for governor of New York State in a letter addressed to W. J. Conners, chairman of the Democratic State committee. The letter says in part:

"I accept the nomination of the Democratic party, bearing in mind the record of that great party in the past and knowing that the membership of the party is determined still to be ruled by the principles of Jefferson and Jackson and guided by Democracy's ideal, the greatest good for the greatest number."

"It cannot be denied that certain individuals and classes have at times secured control of the machinery of the Democratic party and attempted to use it for their own personal or class profit. The duty of true Democrats is to deprive of all authority within the party, those who represent only special interests and who seek to promote such interests at the expense of the general welfare."

"The Democratic convention at Buffalo did this thing in a most conspicuous and effective manner. Democrats, so-called, but seekers after special privileges in reality, were driven over into the Republican party where those of their class flourish."

"The line is now clearly drawn between special privilege on one hand and equal opportunity on the other.
The Democratic party, purged in this State of corporation control and pledged to end the boss control through which corporations act, now has an opportunity to serve the people as efficiently as it did in the times of Jefferson and Jackson."

"The attitude that the Democracy should take toward great capitalistic organizations now is precisely that of Jackson toward the United States Bank which appeared as a menace in his day."

"The property rights of every man and of every organization of any kind, must be respected, but to-day as in the days of Jackson, it is necessary to declare that no power shall rise up greater than the government of menacing to the government."

"The Democrats of to-day must declare and they must mean that no matter how great the wealth of individuals or corporations, that wealth must not be an irresponsible dominating power in government."

"The people beyond any question demand open primaries and the passage of a direct nomination laws to bring the government directly under the control of the people."

"The enforcement of the eight hour law in government work, the enforcement of the law concerning the pre-valing rate of wages is demanded by the people, and it is demanded by Democratic principles as old as the declaration of independence."

"Democracy speaks also in denunciation of the great Chinese labor menace which is now revived because of the introduction on a large scale of Chinese labor in Panama. The suggestion to introduce into this country, and to employ by the taxpayers of this country a people of low intelligence and still lower morals is an attack upon the welfare of moral and material of the American citizen."

"I promise faithfully, if elected, to do all that I can as a citizen of the United States in office to realize and apply the great principles of the historic Democratic party."

"And I pledge myself to work with others to rid the Democratic party, and so far as possible, all branches of government, of that plutocratic trust element that seeks to rule both parties and to destroy the Democratic party utterly."

PEONAGE CALLED SLAVERY

Northerners Said to Hold Negroes and Whites as Slaves.

Washington, October 12.—Fresh allegations of the existence of slavery in southern Florida, below Tampa, have been made to the Department of Justice and it is alleged that hundreds of men, in that State, both white and negroes, are held in virtual slavery. It is declared that those responsible for this condition of affairs are mostly Northern men and companies engaged in the turpentine and lumber business and in mining phosphate rock. It is further alleged that the sheriffs in various counties in the southern part of the State are said to be parties to the enslaving of negroes in the phosphate mines, turpentine farms and lumber mills. The department informant, who is a woman, is to have an interview with Attorney General Moody after which the Department will decide upon the course it will pursue.

NATIONALS WIN FROM AMERICANS

Fourth Game of the Seven for World's Championship Base Ball.

18,385 PAID ADMISSIONS

Receipts for Four Games $61,855, of Which Players Will Get $33,401, Winning Team to Take 75 Per Cent.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.) Chicago, October 12.—The world's championship baseball series is again even, the local National League team today defeating the American Leaguers, 1 to 0. Each team has now won two games. Curiously enough, both National victories have been on the American grounds, while the White Stockings have earned success on their rival's field.

Altrock, for the Americans and Brown for the Nationals, the pitchers who opposed each other in the opening game, which was won by Altrock's team, again contested for supremacy today. Brown was at his best. He showed nerve, speed, control and intelligence. He gave only two passes and allowed only two hits. He held the American hitless until the sixth inning, when, with two out, Hahn hit cleanly to center. Jones, however, promptly ended the inning by flying out to Schulte.

The Nationals looked dangerous as early as the second inning when Steinfeldt hit to center and reached third on Tinker's sacrifice and Evers' out. Kling, always a formidable batsman, was up, and Altrock deliberately attempted to pass him with the hope that Brown, the next batter, would go out easily after the fashion of most pitchers. Kling, however, reached for one of the wild ones and lifted a mighty fly into right field. Hahn, however, raced back and saved the day, at least temporarily, by making a magnificent catch while bending back over the wire cable used to hold back the crowd.

The Americans made their only real bid for the game when Rohe reached first on Steinfeldt's bad throw and reached third on a sacrifice and an out. Brown, however, showed his nerve by striking out Davis, who was again back in the game at short.

The Nationals earned the run which won the game. Chance sent a fly to short-right-field and reached third on sacrifices by Steinfeldt and Tinker.
Evers placed a pretty single over third base and Chance scored.

In the ninth, McFarland batted for Altrock and went out. Steinfeldt to Chance. Hahn flew out to Tinker.
Then Jones raised the fluttering hopes of his supporters by waiting for four bad ones and going to second when a ball got past Kling and hit the umpire. Under the rules Jones was entitled to a base. A good hit would have tied the game at this point and with Isbell at bat the hopes of the Americans were high. The big second baseman swung viciously at a waist high ball and connected squarely. It went like a cannon shot right at Brown's face. Brown had barely time to get his hands on the ball and the force of the blow laid him flat on his back. For the moment it looked as if he had been dazed by the fall, but he recovered and threw out the runner, ending the game.

Brown had pitched a masterly game and the usual crowd swarmed onto the field and fought for a chance to pat him on the back. He had fairly to fight to get out of the grounds.
Hofman, who had made a magnificent running catch in right center of Hahn's low flyer, Evers, who had turned apparent hits into put-outs, and Captain Chance also came in for their share of approbation.

The weather was by far the best of the series, and although heavy wraps were worn, they really were not needed. The attendance reflected the improved weather, the official count showing 18,385 paid admissions.

This is the last game in which the players share the game money. The total receipts for the four games were $61,855, of which $33,401.70 goes to the players. Of this sum 75 per cent goes to the members of the winning team.

COLD WEATHER HELPING TRADE

Early Advent of Snow and Frost Has Done Some Damage.

COTTON AND TOBACCO HURT

Railroads Have So Hardly Handle Immense Traffic Offered To Them.
Industry Is Active But Labor Is Scarce.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)
New York, October 12.—Bradstreets tomorrow will say: Cold weather has greatly stimulated many lines of retail trade hitherto inclined to lag, notably in this respect being heavy weight clothing, shoes and rubber footwear. That the early advent of snow and frost has done some damage is evident in reports of inquiry to fruit orchards and tobacco plants at the West and rumors of frost damage to cotton at the South.

The railways seem to be finding increased difficulty in handling the traffic offering and fears future great congestion are expressed.

The price situation as a whole is one of great strength, October 1 prices being at a record level. For the week the features in speculative circles have been the slowness of dealings in grain and small net changes in price and the sharp fluctuations of cotton, due to contradictory advices as to frost damage.

In other lines of industry, activity is the rule and labor scarcity is a cause of complaint from manufacturers, farmers, and lumbermen. Collections show some improvement at the West and are slightly better at the South where higher prices for cotton induce a freer movement.

Jobbing trade, though of a between-seasons character, is very large for the season.

The wool markets are practically deadlocked with buyers and sellers apart and whatever advantage there is apparently in buyers' favor. The firm closing of wool prices sustains holders' views, but manufacturers are buying only small quantities.

Business failures for the week in the United States ending October 11, number 192, against 136 last week.

SHOE DOUGLAS MAY RUN AGAIN.

John B. Moran May Decline Nomination for Governor of Massachusetts.
(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Portland, Ore., October 12.—Former Governor W. L. Douglas, of Massachusetts, who is a guest at the Hotel Portland, has received word that the Democratic nominee, John B. Moran, has decided to withdraw and that party leaders are urging Mr. Douglas's name as a successor. He said that to accept the nomination would be making a sacrifice as he had intended to remain away from home some time, as he badly needed rest.

"I do not care for the nomination, but I might accept it under some circumstances," said Mr. Douglas. "If I thought that to keep the tariff question to the front in my State it was necessary for me to enter the race, it is probable that I would take the nomination, provided it is offered to me.
If the people insist I will probably yield to their wishes."

"Tariff revision is the great live question before the people of Massachusetts, and we, as Democrats of the State, cannot afford to permit the movement to lose impetus. Tariff was the issue when I was elected governor and it won me many friends.
That year I received no less than 50, 000 votes from Republicans who believed in tariff revision. And if I should run again, it is probable that I will receive their votes again."

BURIED BODIES TOO SHALLOW.

Serious Charge Against Twenty Persons in Baltimore County, Md.
(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Baltimore, Md., October 12.—Investigations by officials of the State board of health extending over some months, culminated to-day in the issuing of warrants for the arrest of 20 residents of Baltimore county, whose names were withheld, on the charge of burying bodies without a permit and omitting to make any record of the burials. Presumably the bodies were found buried in a spot not far from a row of saloons and gambling houses. The interments according to Dr. John S. Fulton, secretary of the State board of health, who swore out the warrants, were made secretly and at night and in the rudest fashion. The bodies were often insufficiently covered and occasionally became exposed and created a nuisance. Altogether more than 40 cases of illegal burials have been discovered in Baltimore county, it is alleged.

The state of affairs revealed is regarded by the health authorities as a dangerous menace to health.

Three thousand bales of cotton which arrived in Bremen, Germany, from Savannah, October 8, on the British steamer Turkenstan, were destroyed by fire yesterday.

NEGRO DESPERADO ESCAPED

Killed Policeman at Roanoke—Murdered Man in West Virginia.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)
Roanoke, Va., October 12.—John Hardy, a negro desperado who early to-day shot and killed Policeman Robert M. Beard, while the latter with two other officers were raiding the Alleghany institute, a refuge for the criminal class, is still at large. Blood hounds took the trail to-day but lost it after following the negro a short distance.

Mayor Cutchin has asked the city council to offer a reward for the capture of Beard's slayer. Hardy recently killed a man in West Virginia and it is thought he killed Beard to prevent his arrest on another charge.
Officers Trout and Hancock, who were in the building when Beard was killed, fired several shots at Hardy in the dark, and it is believed he was hit.
There was but one light in the large building and that was in a room on the third floor where the tragedy occurred.

Beard was a veteran officer. He leaves a widow and eight children.
The city board of aldermen to-night offered a reward of $250 for the capture of Hardy.

"Tommy" Burns and "Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien, on Thursday at Los Angeles, signed articles to fight twenty rounds before the Pacific Athletic Club in that city on November 29 for the heavyweight pugilistic championship of the world. The men agree to fight for a purse of $12,000, a bonus of ten per cent of which goes to O'Brien, the remaining $10,800 to be divided 75 per cent to the winner and 25 to the loser.

At Indianapolis, Ind., yesterday George Williams, a negro who was accused of killing policeman Edward J. Pettit, was found guilty of murder in the first degree with death by hanging as the punishment. The jury was out seventeen minutes.
